

Department:	Faculty of Information Technology
Course Name	Signals and Systems
Hours per week	4
Number of Credits	4
Course Description	This course introduces the basic concepts and methods for the transmission and processing of determinate signal via linear, time invariant systems. It covers basic principles and techniques of signal and system analysis in time domain and transform domains, including Fourier transform, Laplace transform and their applications.